

OUR STAFF

- L&U recruits school administrators, certified teachers, retired teachers, and individuals with a bachelor's degree or higher.
- Our tutors are highly qualified as defined by the State and Federal legislation.
- Certified teachers implement our instructional model.

COMMUNITY & PARENT INVOLVEMENT

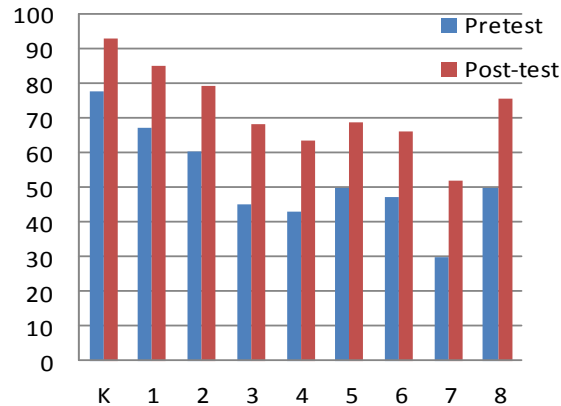

- L & U offer services in the schools, community centers and churches in North Carolina and Virginia, which allows students to be tutored at a time and location that is convenient for parents.
- L & U provides transportation, various locations and flexible tutoring hours to accommodate parents' schedules and to provide safe and healthy environments.
- Parents are appreciative of the flexible tutoring program, the quality of the program and our communications with them. Parents receive regular progress reports monthly and are encouraged to participate in the learning plan development. One parent commented that she was pleased that L & U was able to work with her child's learning disability.
- At the completion of tutoring, parents see improvement in their children's reading and math skills and school grades.

GOALS OF THE PROGRAM

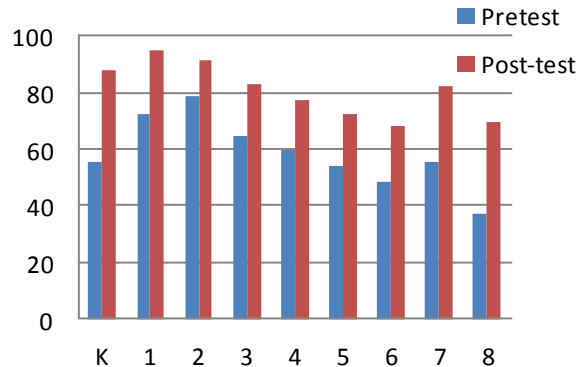

- to partner with the schools and parents
- to help students improve their academic performance in their daily classroom studies
- to better prepare them for district, state, and/or national tests

THE CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION MODEL

ONE ON ONE TUTORING

SMALL GROUP

DRILL, PRACTICE , TESTING

INDEPENDENT PRACTICE

Learning and You provides basic, remedial and enrichment services to students in grades K-12. Our tutoring instructional program uses a variety of research-based approaches and instructional methodologies that are prescriptive, skilled-based, thematic, and aligned with the common core standards.

The instructional focus is derived from the differentiated curriculum model. Students are pretested using a standardized test to identify their academic strengths and challenges. Once the skill levels of students have been identified, an individualized learning plan and the instructional tools are developed. Starting Fall 2012, the ACT will be aligned with the Common Core Standards and used to measure college and career readiness.

The teacher to student ratio is 1:5. Instruction is student-centered; the tutor creates instructional centers or stations with various activities that address an array of higher order thinking skills. Students rotate among the centers every 10-20 minutes.

COMMUNICATION

L & U renders quality service to children, parents, and the school through forming partnerships. Feedback from our partners reveals that communication is vital to academic success. We communicate by:

- Combining parent conferences with school functions
- Having student led conferences
- Conducting flexible conferencing using various modes of delivery such as:
 - telephone
 - e-mail
 - home visits
- Setting up booths at school and community events
- Inviting parents to participate in the tutoring sessions
- Contributing human and financial resources to schools and parents
